Score breakdown

Trust · 3.5 / 5

The official help centre is detailed, but most of the program is simulated.

Trading Tests and PRO accounts use simulated environments. PRO+ is live, but selection is discretionary. Take Profit Trader publishes specific targets, buffers and account rules, which makes the program easier to audit than firms that keep those details inside a dashboard.

Cost · 3.0 / 5

Monthly test billing raises the cost of a slow pass.

The Trading Test renews monthly on the original purchase date until it is passed or manually cancelled. PRO accounts have no recurring subscription, but Take Profit Trader lists a one-time $130 PRO fee and futures commissions still apply.

Payout speed · 4.3 / 5

PRO withdrawals can start quickly once the buffer is reached.

PRO traders keep 80% and may withdraw on day one after building a buffer equal to the maximum drawdown. Plaid, PayPal and Wise are listed payout routes. PRO+ removes the buffer and raises the trader split to 90%.

Drawdown rules · 2.9 / 5

The drawdown becomes stricter after the test.

The Trading Test uses end-of-day trailing drawdown. A 50K test has a $2,000 threshold. PRO uses an intraday trailing drawdown, so unrealised gains can move the limit during the session. PRO+ returns to end-of-day drawdown.

Scaling plan · 3.4 / 5

The program progresses from simulated PRO to discretionary live PRO+.

A passed test leads to PRO with an 80% split. Traders who receive an invitation can move to PRO+, where trades route to the exchange, the split rises to 90% and the payout buffer disappears. The firm alone decides who receives the upgrade.

Trading platform · 3.8 / 5

The platform choice covers the main futures connection routes.

Take Profit Trader lists Tradovate, NinjaTrader and Rithmic. The offering is limited to approved futures on CME, CBOT, COMEX and NYMEX rather than forex, CFDs, stocks, options or spot crypto.

Customer support · 3.8 / 5

Live chat and email support are available.

The help centre has separate pages for test rules, PRO rules, payouts and account management. Live chat and support email are available for account-specific issues. Public response-time statistics are not supplied.

Account opening · 3.3 / 5

The test can be completed in five trading days.

There is no time limit, but traders must record at least five active days and hit the account's profit target. The 50% profit-consistency rule can raise the required net profit when one day contributes too much of the total.

Restrictions · 2.6 / 5

The rules favour manual intraday trading.

Bots and automated algorithms are prohibited. Positions must use approved products and hours, overnight holding is not allowed, and opposite positions in the same or closely related products are banned. PRO accounts also restrict trading around listed news events.
